

BIG ENGINE NOW IN YARDS AFTER SUCCESSFUL TRIP

No. 6022 Brings a Loaded
Loaded Train From Cumberland to Connelville.

OTHERS WILL FOLLOW SOON

Baltimore & Ohio to Put 20 of Them
in Service on Mainline District Noted Railroad Writer Opposes Demands of Big Four; Other Notes.

The first of the big "B" type engines, No. 6022, arrived in the yards
last evening after a successful run over the mountains from Cumberland.
The train was a day behind schedule,
trouble in Cumberland on Tuesday
holding it there a day.

The engine will be in the yards here
for a time unless it should be taken to Broad Ford to be turned on the
"A" there, as the turntable is not yet
in. The big locomotive is the size of the large Mallet engines being used by the Western Maryland railroad on the Hagerstown division and it excited much admiration while on the Connecticut division between here and Cumberland.

There are 20 of these big engines
to be used and all of them are at Cumberland or Keyser, W. Va. They will be put into immediate service on this division. The table will be put in tomorrow if the plans come out on schedule and everything will be in readiness for the rest of the class.
The only other improvement now necessary here is an extension of the roundhouse so that the rear of the locomotive will be covered.

OPPOSES TRAINMEN

James O. Pichin, the railroad signalman and widely known author of several books and magazine articles on various phases of operation from the viewpoint of the employee, has declined to endorse the so-called justices of the claims of the 300,000 members of the four brotherhoods engaged in their effort who are formulating demands for an increase in pay through an eight hour work day, with time and half-time for overtime. The author sets forth the following reasons for opposing the movement: 1.
Because wages in train service today
are already extremely high and generous. 2. Because the wages are also unreasonably higher than those of other employees whose services are equally valuable. 3. Because the big four class of employees have an exaggerated idea of their own importance as compared with the rest of the railroad world, and their demands for additional pay are founded on a quite an extent on this misconception.
4. Because the big four as a preferred class, with special privileges and concessions, is a reflection on the communitarian ideas and principles of the American people. 5. And finally, because while wages in the train service
have been continually on the climb
the tension on the responsibility of the employee has slackened while the dangers, discomforts and hardships connected with the service have been reduced to a very satisfactory minimum.

HEADLIGHT FLASHES

E. B. Brown, a Baltimore & Ohio warehouseman of Connelville, was a caller in town yesterday.

In the wreck at Ohiopyle Tuesday evening that tied up both the east and west bound tracks, two box cars
went over the bank into the river.
Four other cars piled up over the tracks.

J. D. Smith, an employee in the Baltimore & Ohio yards here, is out on the relief with a bad ankle. Several days ago while working in the Baltimore & Ohio camp he stepped on an arch beam that had been taken from an engine. The beam cut entirely through the leather of his shoe and also cut his ankle so badly that two stitches were needed.

The Western Maryland railroad had a freight derailment at Stewarton yesterday that held up the morning east bound passenger train. Four cars from Dickerson Run got the cars back on the track without holding the passenger long.

Jacob Dill, the general passenger conductor on the Indian Creek Valley railroad, is spending the day in Pittsburg.

G. W. Sautz, general passenger agent for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, was in town on business this morning. Mr. Sautz has been so-lizing over the Connelville division for a week.

General Superintendent E. A. Peck of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad was in town yesterday in his business car
looking over this part of the Connelville division. The big "B" type engine and the turntable that arrived last week were the main objects of his visit.

Work on the new scales at Smithfield is progressing rapidly. After the scales are put in the same will be transferred to Johnstown where the Baltimore & Ohio is going to make improvements in the yards there.

DICKERSON RUN.

DICKERSON RUN, March 2.—
Emmett Adair of Vanderburg has moved his family to Liberty.

Mrs. J. M. Black and Mrs. E. W.
Black spent yesterday in Connelville.
Mrs. Lena Schaefer and Mrs. W. H.
Hughes have returned to their homes
at Hazelwood, after spending a few days visiting Dawson relatives and relatives.

Mrs. Frank Black is spending two weeks visiting friends at Meyersdale.
George Jarrett of Scottville and R.
L. Jarrett of Pittsburgh, were business callers here yesterday.

Miss Lillian Strickler was shopping
in Pittsburgh yesterday.
The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie wreck
train was called out of Dickerson Run yesterday morning, its destination being Stewarton on the Western Maryland, where fast freight train No. 1 burned off a journal. The wrecking crew soon had a truck under the car
and moved it to the yard.

SHIVELY'S ILLNESS TAKES GRAVE TURN.

Friends in Indiana of United States Senator Benjamin F. Shively received word from Washington that his condition is much worse than when he reached Washington to attend the sessions of Congress. He is being treated in a Washington hospital for cancer. His physicians express little hope he will ever recover his full health.

GIRLS! HAVE A MASS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR, SOFT, GLOSSY, WAVY

25-Cent Bottle Destroys Dan- druff and Doubles Beau- ty of Your Hair.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes,
but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scrappy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable luster,
softness and luxuriance.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any that it has been neglected or injured
by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—ADV.

DUNBAR.

DUNBAR, March 2.—Mrs. Ella
Hamilton is on the sick list.

J. L. Ketter returned home from Clinton, after spending a day with his daughter, Mrs. Sadie Ketter.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ketter of Clinton, a 10 pound baby boy. Mrs.
Ketter was formerly a resident of this place.

Mrs. Roy Strickler of Dickerson Run spent yesterday with her parents, Mr.
and Mrs. Clarence Moffitt.

S. W. Kinsman, aged 55 years, died Wednesday at noon, following a long illness. Mr. Kinsman is survived by his wife and the following children:
Leonard, Olla, Ray, Donald, Beatrice,
all at home, and Bella of McKeesport.
He is also survived by a brother, John Kinsman of Newark and two sisters, Mrs.
Iva Stull of Albion, and Mrs. Lizzie Hoyt of Nebraska. Funeral services will be held from his late residence in Water street, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Rev. T. M. Gladden officiating, assisted by Rev. D. E.
Miner. Interment in Mount Auburn cemetery.

Miss Christina Sauters of Broad Ford spent Tuesday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Gustave Kumpach of Bryson Hill.

Mrs. Charles Lincoln of Railroad street, was shopping in Connelville
yesterday.

Dr. J. L. Junk of Connelville, was here yesterday on professional business.

The Gadsden Adult Bible Class of the Methodist Episcopal Church will attend the Bob Jones meeting tonight in Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Ida VanHorn of Connelville, was transacting business here yesterday.

Mrs. Ida Semmes was a Connelville caller yesterday.

DEYING WINS DECISION.

Tommy Levine Takes Over Jack Flynn
of Jeannette.

In a fast six round bout at Scottdale
last evening Tommy Levine of Pittsburg won from Jack Flynn of Jeannette.
The fight was a hard one, both men taking lots of punishment. Levine was seen in action here against Henry Broad of New Kensington, whom he knocked out at the last bout staged on the West Side.

But Harris and Young Brooks got a draw in the semi-final. Pat Hahn gave Bill Lack a good trimming in the preliminary.

Coke Prices Still at St. Louis.

The St. Louis correspondent of the Daily Iron Trade reports that the inquiry for coke is better with prices for 12-hour Connelville and Virginia foundry grades still at $4 to $4.50 for spot delivery and at $3.75 to $4 contract. Early delivery coke is held at a premium.

Announcing

Anniversary Sale Starts
March 10, and Continues
all Month

When you buy household needs there are two things that stand out most prominently and are long remembered—the VALUES that you get for your money and the SERVICE they will give.

To make this Anniversary Sale one that will NEVER be forgotten—Aaron's have collected a really wonderful lot of values of reliable merchandise at prices that could not even be approached by any other house. All we can say is that this is indeed a rare opportunity for you to save real money.

The reasons for these savings are many. First of all, Aaron's entire Anniversary Sale stocks of reliable Furniture, Carpets, Rugs, Stoves and House Furnishings were contracted for as early as last September and October—before the radical increases in prices became effective. Not only do we give you the advantage of this saving, but also of the special concessions that the large Aaron buying-organization can demand from the manufacturers.

We Guarantee to Save You From 15% to 40%

On every purchase you make during Aaron's greatest Anniversary Sale. You have the largest variety and assortment of household furnishings of all the latest styles and designs to choose from that can be found in this part of the State. And every piece of merchandise is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction—that's the feature that makes buying at Aaron's so desirable. We're not going to quote any prices now—because we want you to actually examine the goods thoroughly, look at the prices they are offered at and really convince yourself that you can save from 15% to 40% on every purchase you make.

Anniversary Sale Starts March 10

Don't miss this opportunity. Be sure to come to Aaron's—even if you are only going to visit. We want you to examine our complete stock very carefully and be fully convinced of the bargains this event offers. All goods are shown with Anniversary Sale tags attached and the prices marked in plain figures.

You can make your selection now—deliveries can be made at any time you say. Everyone in this vicinity should visit Aaron's at least once during the Anniversary Sale. Our salesmen will extend to you every courtesy so that your visit will be most interesting and pleasant.

Be sure to ask our salesmen about the easy, liberal and convenient payment plan we have arranged for you. They will gladly explain it.

WHERE IS A MINE?

The authorities of West Virginia and Maryland are looking for the mine in which the explosion occurred in the line in Maryland.

The question as to which state has jurisdiction in the investigation of the cause of the explosion has been raised, both states claiming the right to conduct the probe. This is the first time such a question has been raised. The point is a novel but not a highly important one.

If we were permitted to make a suggestion we would say that instead of quarrelling over the right to investigate the authorities of both states should join in making the investigation to the end that it may be as thorough as possible and as right as can be.

JAMES ANA CHILDS.

The sudden taking away of James Ana Childs, in the full prime of manhood, makes his Conneltsville coke region friends instinctively think of an accident in or about the mines of coke ovens which he managed, so well and hardy did he appear to the casual observer before he left here to have the operations which resulted in his death.

"Jim" Childs was a self-contained man, who governed himself well and was consequently able to govern others well. In manner he was quiet, in disposition sunny, in his relations with his fellow men just.

The large number of his friends and the absence of enemies discloses the manner of man he was and explains why the coke region, especially that portion of it around Conneltsville, mourns the loss of "Jim" Childs.

STAY AT HOME.

We all appreciate the sacred rights of the American citizen, but the Courier is inclined to feel that his long career to date has been a long one. In the proposition that American citizens, or some of them at least should this summer keep out of Europe, keep out of danger, and keep the American Government out of trouble.

President Wilson has enough trouble on his hands just now trying to win a second term in the White House without being bothered any more with the foreign situation, and the sensible people of the country would be glad that did not try to engage further in the belated diplomacy for the reason that there is too much danger of his making it with policy.

The result might be appalling.

THE FIRE SURVEY.

The Fire Department's survey of Conneltsville is complete, and as a department record and a guide to future firemen from fire it is one of the most valuable additions to the city's records.

It also uncovered hundreds of hazards which owners of buildings never dreamed about, and when these are remedied, and when these are remedied, that Conneltsville will be in better shape to meet its demand for a better fire department.

The French are confident of holding Verdun. A look at the map indicates that Verdun is not far from Metz. The French were not able to hold Metz in 1871. Will they be able to make a better resistance when the big Krupp guns of the Germans are trained upon this fortress?

President Wilson announces that he is sure of the support of the House on the question of Preparedness and he might perhaps have added the Senate, too, but whether he will have the support of the Democratic party remains to be seen. The Republicans are helping him over this rough place.

A mountain storm showed the seaward trail how to hit it up last night.

Considering the notices of the boldest nations, that neutrals should keep out of trouble, and considering the activities in the war zone, this is a good year for Americans to stay at home.

The Conneltsville Department of Health is making it plain that people who visit sick persons of a contagious character may expect to have the quarantine hanging upon them. It's a little rough on the visitors when they don't know what they are running into; otherwise, it is only restriction.

The Superintendent of the Department of Public Safety is urging the fire before they start, so that there won't be any. Prevention is the best insurance as it is also the best compensation.

They do say that Dunbar was Saint Patrick's first step this side of Ireland.

With the Hickory Switch succeed to the activities and functions of the Big Stick in the question of the hour at Washington.

Looking Backward

News of the Past Continued from the First of The Courier.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1916.

The coke trade has made a brave start toward getting on its feet following the settlement of the strike, 8,402 tons out of the 10,882 in the region being in blast, leaving 2,480 which have not yet come to the producing stage.

The shipments are up to 670 cars for the week, 620 of which are marketed by the coke syndicate and 140 by the outside operators. The new borough council organized with Crawford Stillwagon president and James Dehard clerk. Edwin Henderson and Isaac Shaw are chosen members of the police force. Their salaries are unchanged at $10 per month, a motion to increase to $50 having been lost by a tie vote. New Haven council elects George H. Mahan clerk and R. A. McMillan treasurer.

Robert Holaday, clerk at the Young House, is made foreman of the grand jury.

Ladies of the Methodist Episcopal Church present Mrs. Mansell, their pastor's wife, with a silk quilt. Colonel John A. Danks is speaker at a campfire of the G. A. R. veterans. The "bean-bake" is a lively affair to which Lord Stouffer, the German singer, contributes his well-known selection, "Song of the Boats." Colonel J. McNeil is mentioned as a possible candidate for Congress.

Unlabeled people object so strongly to a preacher riding a bicycle that he resigns. During the same week "Bull" Newcomer, a pugilist claiming the County Capital as his home, is sent to meet "Bully" Clipp, a Youngstown mediaeval knight in a fight with bare knuckles for a $75 purse. The partnership of H. P. Snyder and A. M. Claybaugh as publishers of The Courier is dissolved. J. H. S. Stimmell succeeds A. M. Claybaugh and the firm becomes Snyder & Stimmell.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1916.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending February 29, shows a total of 17,847 tons in the region, of which 12,274 are in blast and 5,573 idle, with an estimated production of 125,726 tons, a decrease of 320 tons from previous week.

Shipments for the week aggregated 8,422 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburgh, 2,710 cars; to points west, 1,305 cars; to points east, 1,314 cars, an increase of 332 cars over the previous week.

The property of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company goes into the hands of John K. Gowan and Oscar G. Murray, receivers.

The Conneltsville Extension Company opens an office in the Solomon Building for sale of lots in South Conneltsville.

H. M. Kenhart, Captain J. M. Duncanson and George W. Campbell announce as candidates for Assembly. Judge Ewing decides that elder cannot be sold without a license. Attorney H. C. Lindsey raises the point in court, relative to the time of filing motions for new trials, that by a decision in old English law, February 12th, the 29th of February does not count as a legal day.

A scheme is hatched by McKeesport people to pipe water from Indian Creek for the use of the town river towers.

The Democrats in the new borough council quarrel so bitterly over the distribution of offices and honors that the body fails to organize after two attempts.

The senior class of the New Haven high school, having passed their examinations in literature by Miss Ella Skiff, principal of the Conneltsville high school, and in algebra by Dr. G. W. Gallagher, promulgates with the following officers: President, G. E. Hooper; vice president, Jennie Leech; secretary, Gertrude P. Cypher; treasurer, Elizabeth H. Collins.

Mrs. Nancy G. Johnston, widow of William G. Johnston, dies at her home near Meyer, aged 53 years.

Father Francis McGowan, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, and Father M. A. Lanning of South Conneltsville, enter into a contest for a set of ornaments to be decided by the amount of money each may collect for the church.

FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1916.

Detailed report of the coke trade for the week ending March 3, shows 23,313 tons in the region, of which 21,330 are in blast and 1,983 idle, with an estimated production of 232,729 tons.

Shipments for the week aggregated 14,439 cars, consigned as follows: To Pittsburgh, 4,912 cars; to points west, 3,240 cars; to points east, 1,547 cars.

The new council organized with Clair Stillwagon president; W. D. McGinnis, clerk; F. W. Rutter, treasurer; Higgins & Brown, solicitors; S. M. Faust, engineer. B. Rutter is made chief of police. The patrolmen are: Howard Anderson, Frank McCadden, Frank McCormick and John DeFemle. In New Haven, J. H. Hulsey is elected president, James Slaughter clerk, S. R. Goldsmith solicitor, J. B. Hogg engineer and W. O. Whisman policeman.

Cyrus Echar, Joseph Echar, Joseph T. Johnston and D. B. Evans buy the coal under the Murphy farm in the neighborhood of $1,000 per acre. They make application for a charter for the Echar Coal & Coke Company.

The century mark of Conneltsville's history as an incorporated borough is passed at midnight on the 8th inst. amid a din of blowing whistles and ringing bells.

The physicians protest against the reduction from $5 to $3 in the fee allowed by insurance companies for examination of applicants for life insurance. Clerk of Council McGinnis makes it known that he does care for the disabled and unemployed as borough clerk and secretary of the board of health, whereupon George J. Brown, the incumbent, expresses a willingness to continue as secretary.

A petition in circulation asking for the appointment of viewers to assess the value of the Young bridge with a view to having it purchased by the county.

A NOVEL

COPYRIGHT BY THE CENTURY CO.

"He sat for a long time and at last came to a resolution. He loved roses. He would send her enough to bank her room and he would follow them home. He went up the avenue to his florist's and stood outside trying to decide whether it should be one mass of blood red or a color scheme. Suddenly the plate-glass caught a reflection and threw it in his face. Gerry turned. A four-wheeler was passing. He could not see the occupant but on top was a large, familiar trunk marked with a yellow circle. On the trunk and the label stared back at him and finally danced before his amazed eyes as the cab disappeared into the traffic.

Gerry stood for a long while, amazed. He saw a lady bow to him from a carriage and afterwards he remembered that he had not bowed back. Somebody ran into him. He looked back at the flowers unseeing in the window, remembered that he did not need them now, and drew slowly away. Two men hailed him from the other side of the street. Gerry braced himself, nodded to them and halted a passing hansom. From the direction Aliz's cab had taken he knew the station she was bound for. As he arrived on the platform they were giving the last call for the Montreal Express. He caught sight of Aliz hurrying through the gates and followed. As she reached the first Pullman, somebody stepped on the window of the drawing room. Gerry saw Aliz's face pressed against the pane. He watched Aliz stop, turn and alight the steps of the car and then she wheeled and hurried from the station.

Where could he go? Not to his club and Aliz's. His face would betray the scandal with which the club would be hounding tomorrow. Not to his big comfortable home. It would be too gloomy. Even in Aliz's, Aliz had imparted to its somber oak and deep shadow the glow of buoyant life. When she was there one felt as though there were flowers in the house. Gerry was seized with a great desire to hide from his world, his mother, himself. He pictured the scene—ends in the past. That the scene of Lansing should be found in that gallery? It was too much. He could not face it.

He bought a morning paper full of shipping news and, settling into a taxi, gave the address of his bank. On the way he studied the sailing column. He found what he wanted. The Gunter due to sail that afternoon for Brazil, Pernambuco the first stop.

At the bank Gerry drew out the balance of his current account. It amounted to something over two thousand dollars. He took most of it in Bank of England notes. Then he hurried home to pack but before he reached the house a vision of the servants, hurried after him by their mistress, off, remonstrating him to each other, pitying him to his face, or in the case of the old butler, suppressing a great emotion, was too much for him. He drove instead to a big department store and an hour had bought a complete outfit. He lunched at one of the quiet restaurants that divide down town from up. The people about him were voluble in French and Spanish. Already he felt as if his exile had begun.

The Gunter was to sail at three from Brooklyn. Gerry crossed by the ferry. He did not get out of his cab. Over his baggage, piled outside and in, he caught a glimpse of the suspension bridge. Years and years ago his father had led him across that bridge when it was the eighth wonder of the world. Gerry gave a great sigh at the memory. He had not invaded Brooklyn since. He had threaded the labyrinthine and reeking length of Furman street he looked out and felt himself upon an alien shore.

He had avoided buying a ticket.

As the Gunter warped out, the pursuer came to him. "I understand you have no ticket."

"No," said Gerry, drawing a roll of bills. "How much is the passage to Pernambuco?"

"The pursuer fidgeted. 'This is irregular, sir, no ticket forms,' said the pursuer, weakening.

"I don't want a ticket," said Gerry. "I want a good room and three square meals a day."

Long, quiet days on a quiet sea are a master sedative to a troubled mind. Gerry had a great deal to think through. He sat by the hour with hands loosely clasped, his eyes far out on the ocean, tracing the course of his married life and wondering the grounds for Aliz's arraignment. Gerry was just and generous to others' faults but not to his own. He had forgotten the sting of Aliz's words and, to his growing amazement, saw in himself their justification. A time-server he certainly had been. But he reviewed the lives of many other men in his own history and decided that he was not without company. After all, what was there in America for such men to do except make more money?

For the first time he was struck by the narrowness of American life. There was only one line of effort. The whole people thronged a single causeway. They made a provincial demand that all should dress alike, look alike, think alike. They pressed on in a body to the single goal of wealth and when they got there they were lost.

Individualists were rare and unwelcome. Boys stoned Chinamen because they were different; they followed a turbaned Asiatic, mistaking it to an friendly reason, with jeers; an arounded Briton, faultlessly dressed, found his spurs the sensation of a street. Each of these incidents Gerry had witnessed with amusement and dismissed without a thought. Now they became as many weather-vanes all pointing the same way. How was it Alan had summed up the history of America? "Men, machinery, machines."

With the thought of Alan his brow puckered. Here he felt no impulse to indulgence. Some day he would meet Alan and when he did he would break him. The scorn he had expressed to Aliz for Alan and Alan's nature was without understanding but it was genuine. He knew there were such men and he ascribed all their acts to a debasement beyond regeneration and none to temperament. From moral laxity there was no appeal beyond the sea itself.

The landfall of Pernambuco awoke him from reveries and introspection. He did not look upon this palm-strewn coast as a land of new beginnings—he sought merely a Lethargy shore.

The ship crawled in from the city sea to the long strip of harbor behind a bowl of unbroken blue; on land, the multicolored houses spread like a fan under a dark cloud of brown-tinted roofs. Giant palm trees cast bits of shade on the cobbled esplanade of the boat quay. In their shelter a negro squatted behind her basin of coconuts and another before a tray of fried fish. Around them lounged a rugged crew of brown-skinned stevedores and ruffian, black, brown and white. Beyond the trees was a line of high, stuccoed houses, each painted a different color, all weather-stained, and some with rusted balconies that threatened to topple on to the passer-by. One bore the legend, "Hotel d'Europe." There Gerry installed himself.

Between the hour of writing her note to Alan and the moment when she stepped on the train Aliz had had no time to think. She was still driven by the impulse of anger that Gerry's words had aroused. She did not reflect that the wound was only to her pride. Alan held open the door of the drawing room. He passed in and he closed it. Aliz thrust back her veil and looked at him. With a quick stride forward he caught her to him and kissed her mouth until she gasped for breath. With a flash she remembered his own words, "If I ever kiss you I shall bring your soul out between your lips." To Aliz's amazement she did not feel an answering fire. The kiss had brought her soul out between her lips. Her soul stood naked before her and she saw that she was not alone. The kiss had brought her soul out between her lips. Her soul stood naked before her and she saw that she was not alone.

Gasping, she pushed Alan from her. Their eyes met. His were burning. hers were frightened. She moved slowly backward to the door and with her hand behind her opened the latch. Alan did not move. He knew that if he could not hold her with his eyes he could not hold her at all. The train started. Aliz passed through the door and rushed to the platform. The porter was about to drop the trap on the steps. Aliz slipped by him. With all her strength she pushed open the door and looked back at him. The train was moving very slowly but Aliz reeled and would have fallen had it not been for a passing baggage-man. He caught her and, still in his arms, Aliz looked back. Aliz's white face was ashen. She looked steadily at her.

"To almost with him, Miss," said the baggage-man, with a full brogue and a twinkling eye.

"How did you know?" said Aliz, dazed.

"At the strange question the baggage-man's longer upper lip drew down to gravity. 'Where d'ye think I was when ye slipped off the train into me arms?' he asked solemnly.

"That's right," said Aliz as she followed him to a cab. She got in and then shook hands with her escort. He looked at the dollar bill her grasp left behind.

"That wasn't called for, Miss. It was enough for me to have saved you from a fall."

"You didn't have to," said Aliz with a bewildering smile. "I saved myself."

She left him scratching his head over the fact that she had not thanked him. Aliz was tired and hungry when she got back home but excitement kept her up. She felt that she stood on the threshold of new effort and a new life. After all, she thought it was she that had made her dear old Gerry into a time-server. She could have made him into anything she liked. She had tried. She longed to tell him so. Perhaps he would catch her and crush her in his arms as Alan had done. She laughed at herself for wanting him. She rung for the butler. "Where's your master, John?"

"I don't know, ma'am. Mr. Gerry hasn't come back since he went out this morning." To John, Mr. Lansing was a person who had been dead for some time. His present overlord was Mr. and Mrs. Gerry and Mrs. Lansing when she was in town.

"Telephone to the club and if he is there tell him I want to see him," said Aliz and turned to her welcome for Gerry that night. But Gerry did not come. At half-past nine Aliz ordered the table cleared. "I'll dine tonight," she said to John. "When your master comes, show him in here."

She sat on in the library rehearsing for Gerry's step in the hall. From time to time John came into the room to replenish the fire. One of these occasions Aliz told him "he might go to bed but an hour later he returned and stood in the great leather chair by the fire.

"It's after one o'clock, ma'am," said John. "Mr. Gerry won't be coming in tonight." Aliz made no answer. John held his ground. "It's time for you to go to bed, ma'am. Shall I call the maid?"

It was a long time since John had taken any apparent interest in his mistress. Aliz had noticed him. She had felt that the old servant showed proof of her. More than once she had thought of discharging him but he had never given her grounds that would justify her before Gerry. Now he was ordering her to bed and instead of being angry she was soothed. She wondered how she could ever have thought of discharging him. He seemed strong and restful, more like part of the old house than a servant. Aliz got up. "No, don't call the maid. I won't need her," she said. Then she added, "Good-night, John," as she passed out.

John held wide the door and bowed with a deference that was a touch more sincere than usual. He answered, "Good-night," as if he meant it.

Aliz was exhausted but it was long before she fell asleep. She cried softly. She wanted to be comforted. She had dressed so beautifully—she had been so beautiful—and Gerry had not come home. As she cried, her disappointment grew into a great trouble.

DON'T BE A SLAVE TO YOUR NERVES

People who are excessively nervous, tired out and run down, who get the jumps and aches, who can't concentrate their minds on work, have a cure in the form of a medicine that "don't give a hang" feeling as common to nervous folks may take it as an almost certain fact that their nerves are due to a movement of over-activated nerve force. Their nerves may be starving and when they are fed entirely complete nervous exhaustion or break down is the result.

A splendid treatment for weak nerves is found in Sarsaparilla, now being recommended by the Lehigh Valley Drug Co., Connelville, Pa., and other better class druggists. Sarsaparilla is guaranteed to bring speedy relief in most cases of nerve disorders or money back. It is absolutely safe and contains no dangerous habit-forming drugs. It costs little to make, the Sarsaparilla test and it is easy to see how quickly you feel its results and how it puts a new joy of living into your system. Do it today—Sarsaparilla.

Large Car Inquiries. Inquiries for new cars are growing in number and requirements. The number of cars now up for active leasing is from 15,000 to 15,000.

At the Theatres

SOISSON THEATRE. "THE RED GIRL." The daily little screen star, Ruth Roland, comes to the Soisson Theatre today in the new reel detective serial, "The Red Girl." It is the seventh episode of this thrilling serial and a most exciting one. "The Family Secret" is a beautiful, Gold Seal, society drama with Alvin Karpis, the new film actor, Vernon in the leading role. It is a charming story of a girl, a gentleman who wants to get married and the efforts of his son to prevent it. The son meets a daughter of the lady who is going to marry the old gentleman and then everything goes smoothly. (The Laemmle comedy-drama, "Arthur's Last Fling," has Robert Julian and Edith Jane Wilson in the cast. A man about town is on the eve of getting married, when he meets an actress friend, and after that things commenced, but he has a friend who helps him out. The lamp drama, "Cinders," tells a pretty story of a girl, who is adopted by a wealthy old man, and becomes a cup in the household. Edith Robert and William Courtright are the stars. Tomorrow, Lillian Pickford comes in "The Diamond From the Sky." Saturday, William A. Brander will present the fascinating young couple, Allice Brady, in the famous society live reel drama, "The Back."

Brady in World Film's picture of the famous stage success, "The Road" is a vehicle which gives this charming young actress a chance of still further earning the praise of numerous admirers among movie fans all over the world. Miss Brady plays the part of Blanche Gordon, young married woman who in wittily places herself in a compromising position with a disreputable man about town. The latter is shot and Blanche is accused of the murder. At the trial she pleads that she committed the crime in defense of her husband. She is about to be sentenced when a man in court confesses that he is the murderer. The dead man had killed his wife. Miss Brady is supported by a powerful cast including Milton Sills, who will be remembered for his artistic work in World Film's "The Pit."

GLOBE THEATRE. "SECRET SEVEN." A three part Vitaphone drama, featuring Carolyn Birch, William Humphrey, Leo DeLaney, Harry Northrup, Rose Tapley and Temple Drake, is being shown today at the Globe in addition to "The Power of Publicity," powerful drama, and one of a series of the "Elegiacs of Helen," railroad pictures. "Secret Seven" deals with a secret service man on trail of counterfeiters, who tracks him to a hidden quarters and runs into mine of plots and counterplots. Dr. Manfred, an Italian-American doctor, is sworn to secrecy by Sebastian, the villainous leader. Hampton, the secret service man, however, surmises what has happened from things the doctor friend tells him, and gains possession of one of the counterfeit bills. With this to work on Hampton goes to work in the task of tracing the counterfeiters. Sebastian watches the doctor's movements and in that way discovers that Manfred's sweetheart, Viola, is the girl he loved in Italy. He makes himself known to her and by telling her that he will inform the police that her father is a murderer, forces her to break her engagement and marry him. Rita, a cost off sweetheart of Sebastian's and a member of the Secret Seven, learns that he has married Viola, and after the ceremony and state Sebastian, Viola is caused to believe that Rita confesses to the crime and Viola and Manfred are happily married. Tomorrow the feature attraction is Lou Tellegen in "The Darkroom," a picture of a girl, who is widely known as a novel entitled, "The Red Wings."

SPECIAL DISPLAY OF EASTER SILKS

Thursday, March 2 Friday, March 3 Saturday, March 4

AS AN INTRODUCTORY TO THE NEW SEASON, we have arranged this special 3-day exhibition of lovely new silks. The entire Dry Goods Sections will be devoted to this display. These silks offer a variety of styles too great for description. All are beautiful and many are exclusive with this store. STRIPES and CHECKS are in the ascendancy at present—the stripes wider, the checks larger than in past seasons. As to COLORS, we know we can safely say you have never seen such an array. All rich, beautifully radiant, and each one decidedly correct.

Easter Coming So Late Many of the smartest Tailored Suits are being made of silk—taffeta, tulle, and Satin—and the same silks, together with printed silks and striped lingerie silks, are arriving for Easter Gowns. The prices have been kept as low as possible, $1.25 to $2.50 a yard.

You Will Find Included in This Display
